Teachers and parents collaborate for the growth of children

What do teachers do?

- They organise various activities to encourage the development of the identity, skills and autonomy of children
- They meet with parents to share the achievements, progress and difficulties of children

What is the advice for parents?

- To look at the bulletin board
- To book the meal every morning
- To notify if the child is late, ill or absent for several days
- To attend parent-teacher conferences
- To attend meetings
- To share the needs and the difficulties of their children with the teachers
- To participate in the election of the section representative or apply for the role

If you need linguistic support to communicate with teachers, you can ask for a CULTURAL MEDIATOR. A person who speaks your language, Italian and knows your culture. It is a free service

What do children do at school?

The goal is their welfare and their harmonious growth. Beyond the family, the school is the most important place of life and relations.

The day is divided into moments (arrival time, snack, lunch, nap time) and activities (game, reading, logical and scientific activities, music, manual activities, physical education and field trips) each with a different objective.

Children learn how to respect timetables, they learn to wait and they get better because they a good rhythm of activities and rest times.

You can find all these activities in "PROGETTO DIDATTICO EDUCATIVO" (Educational and didactic project). It is available for consultation at school.
